The members of the Bermondsey Brothers fished a competition in the Thames last Sunday for their December series of prizes, roving between Penton Hook and Sheepper ten Locks. Although a fair muster turned out, only one of them succeeded in getting above the stipulated hair a pound required by the rules of the society—Mr. Taylor, a small chub. Messrs. Patman and James Smith weighed in reach and dace from other waters. To lay (Sunday) they fish for their Christmas prizes, the place and conditions of which had not been decided when these lines were punted.

On Wednesday evening I attended the visit of the Stoke Newington Angling Society, and received a very kindly welcome from Mr. Grotton, the secretary, and Mr. P. C. Godfrey, the chairman. Mr. Cretton, informed me that the members of this society are simpliarly unfortunate as regards weather. Last year when they had their visit it was raining the whole evening, while on Wednesday no doubt the donse fog prevented many would-be visitors from attending. However, the cosy little club-room was full, and on Mr. Manning calling the roll ten clubs responded—two of them (the Alma and I dington Brothers) not being on the list. Som dissatisfaction was caused by Mr. Gaurney—member of the Hoxton Brothers and Clappton A. S.—answering the roll for both societies, and I was extremely surprised to bear Mr. Manning, the visiting officer, state that it was the rule is a very bad oue, inan much that it is very unfair to other clubs on the list.

On Weinesday next Mr. E. S. Shrubsole will read a paper before the members of the Blackfriers Angling Society under the auspicies of the Society for Promoting the Reading of Papers Among Angling Clubs, entitled, "Fly-dishing for Coarse Pish." The chair will be taken by Mr. E. B. Marston, who will, I hear, be supported by Mr. Cunari, Mr. T. R. Sachs, Mr. T. Crumplen, and other well-known angling friends. An entertainment will follow. Mr. Howard, the secretary, informs me it is the intention to start punctual at 8.30. I hope this will be the case. The December competition of the above society, for four prizes, takes place on Sanday, the 21st inst., at kingston. Two rods will be allowed, and all fash will sount. Benides the ordinary monthly prizes, there will be extra Christmas prizes such as beef, univer, gooss, wines, spirits, tobacco, cigari, and other Christmas cheer, to be flished for og the same day. The Silver Trout were to have land an outing on Sunday at Shiplake, but 3 was postponed. Mr. T. Crumplen reads a paper before the members of this society on Tuestay next, to be followed by a smoking

Amiling in the Thames during the past week owing to the cold weather, has not been of much account, and in the tidal portion very little has been done above the locks. The following are the principal results:—At Shepperton, Mr. Yarborough, in one day, four brace of jack, the largest fish 71b.; and Mr. Masters, two brace. At Sheines, Mr. Morris, in one day, one brace of good jack, the largest fish weighing over 19th.; Mr. Meneur, in one day, one brace of good jack, the largest 21b, and one dozen of roacl; Mr. Keano, in one day, thirty chub, the largest 21b; and Mr. Graham Bennett, in one day, ten chub, the largest 21b, and one jack. Just at this season of the year it is well for fresh life since 1839, when it certainty somewhat moribund appearance. I am informed by one in the trade that he shas been formed by one in the trade that he shas been doing very brisk business for the last fortnight, aspecially in the more coatly kinds, and that his turnover so far does not fall far short of what it was in the palmy days of the fashion. Those who possess the necessary knowledge can now pick up dead bargains in cycles, both new and secondhand. Fearing a pneumatic or a "cushion" mania next season, maker are extremely anxious to roduce their present stocks lest they should become unsaleable later on. I have heard of cases in which after a little bargaining, list prices were reduced by 40 or even 50 per cent. to private purchasers. The great makers would not, or ourse, knock off so much as that, but ever in their case a purchaser can secure very favourable terms by offering money down. A £10 note should buy a really good safety, with balls all over and every modera improve Purchasing at auctions is another pair of shoes altogether. None but experts can attempt it without running grave risk of finding thamselves landed with worthless goods. A careful inspection should always be made beforehand of all the machines about to be offered for sale, and after this preliminary process has soparated the goats from the sheep, those that have passed muster should be overhauled again and again. By adopting this plan, the would-be purchaser learns, st all events, what machines are worth a bid or two. But he needs to beware, lest some friend of the owner does not run up the price against him. I have known that happen before now.

Winter riding is certainly going out of fashion. Some allowance should be made no doubt, for the very unfavourable weather we have had in London since the last day of autumn; but I have noticed that even when the roads were tolerably hard and the

all the circumstances into consideration, quate, we excellent opportunity for testing the state Londom of public feeling in the present remarkable political crisis. Sir FREDERICE MILMER, the Conservative, and Mr. MELLOR, the Gladstonite candidate, are, both of them, candidates whose personalities will certainly not affect their chances unfavourably. The best of the comes. not affect their chances unfavourably. The fight is, in every way, a fair one; but in view of the political record of the div ision in the past it is the Unionist, rather than his opponent, who ought to win. The late Mr. BECKETT, in 1885, won the seat from the locally powerful Mr. Fot-JAMBE by a majority of 295, and in 1886 he was returned unopposed. It is, therefore, the duty of the Unionists of Baseet-law to see that the small majority of 1885 is not only maintained, but increased. The his opponent, who ought to win. The late Mr. BECKETT, in 1895, won the seat from the locally powerful Mr. Fot-JAMBS by a majority of 295, and in 1886 he was returned unopposed. It is, therefore, the duty of the Unionists of Basset-law to see that the small majority of 1885 is not only maintained, but increased. The polling at Bassetlaw will be justly regarded both by our friends and our foes as the first expression of the opinion of the electorate on the change which has come over the spirit of the Home Rule dream. Now, therefore, is the time for every Unionist in the division to prove that he appreciates the significance of the flood of light which recent events have thrown upon Home Rule. "What is Home Rule?" the bewildered elector has often and the light of the second of the second seco asked—and asked in vain. But now the character and the inevitable results of it stand out as clear as daylight at a time when everything else is in confusion. Home Rule is now clearly seen to mean a Home Rule is now clearly seen to mean a series of Irish faction fights, culminating in civil war. "Wigs on the green" would be the first, and bullets and bayonets the second result of the establishment of an Irish Parliament in Dublin. If any man wants to know what an Irish Parliament would be like he has only to read the reports of the proceedings in Committee its limits. Our readers will remember that the Government proposed to accomplish two principal objects. One of these was to pass certain measures for the immediate relief of distress in Ireland consequent upon the partial failure of the potato crop. The other was to push on to the committee stage the two great measures which failed to pass last session owing to the obstructive pertinsoity of the Opposition. These measures were, of course, the Tithe Rent Oharge Recovery Bill and the Irish Land Purchase Bill, which in the present of two pertinsoits of the Opposition. STATEMENT.—Mr. Blanchard Wontner, sourcitor, who appeared to prosecute in a number of summonses under the rables order, said that, as his worship was probably aware, an announcement was made on the 5th inst. in the House of Commons that the order as affecting the metropolis would shortly be withdrawn. It was hoped by the authorities that up till the time it was canelded the public would really try and assist them by keeping the dogs munsied. There had been greet difficulties in auforcing the order, but now that its maintenance was only a matter of, perhaps, weeks—certainly not more than two or three months —there should be a loyal disposition not to disregard it.—Mr. De Rutsen: No time is mentioned for its discontinuance.—Mr. Wontner: No, sir; only that it will be taken off as soon as possible.

I may say that when the rables order was enforced in 1886, it was taken off too soon, although the cases of rables had declined to the smallest number known for many years.
But, unfortunately, small as the number was, it was a nuclous from which eprang in the following year over 400 recorded cases of canine madness, and that was probably not half the cases which really occurred.
The authorities are most anxious to continue the order long enough for a permanent benefit, and having done so much they rather now appeal to the good sense of the public to holp them than the imposition of heavy fines.
